

National Environmental Education Week

A National Environmental Education Foundation Program

March 2, 2009

www.eeweek.org

What happens to water after it's rinsed down the drain?

What living things are found in our streams?

The Earth is covered in water - why do we need to conserve it?

Do your students have a question about water? Now they can Ask an Expert!

National Environmental Education Week connects your students to experts who can answer their questions! In support of EE Week's 2009 Be Water Wise! theme, we invite you to submit your students' questions about water to be answered by our panel of experts. Answers will be posted to EEWeek.org during EE Week (April 12-18, 2009.)

Our panel of experts is a diverse group of water professionals who can answer questions on a variety of topics, including:

- Water treatment
- Water quality
- Aquatic biology
- Water chemistry
- Drought and water scarcity
- Infrastructure and engineering
- Pollution and mitigation
- And more!

Selected questions will be answered by our panel of water experts and posted to EEWeek.org. While EE Week cannot guarantee that all questions will be answered, we will post answers to as many questions as possible.

Submit your students' water-related questions by March 15, 2009!

Send an email to eeweek@neefusa.org with:

- "Ask an Expert" in the subject line,
- A water-related question for our experts, and
- Your name, grade/subject taught and the name of your school or organization*.

Our Program

National Environmental Education (EE) Week, made possible by Canon USA, Inc., is the largest organized environmental education event in the United States. EE Week promotes understanding and protection of the natural world by creating a full week of environmentally-themed lessons and activities in K-12 classrooms, nature centers, zoos, museums, and aquariums.

The National Environmental Education Foundation (NEEF) provides knowledge to trusted professionals who, with their credibility, amplify messages to national audiences to solve everyday environmental problems. Together, we generate lasting positive change.

NEEF partners with professionals in health, education, media, business, and public land management to promote daily actions for helping people protect and enjoy the environment. Through our primary programs - Classroom Earth, National Public Lands Day, National Environmental Education Week, Business and Environment, Earth Gauge and our Pediatric Environmental History Initiative - we offer Americans knowledge to live by.
